SENATOR ALLARD SECURES $4 MILLION FOR BOULDER TURNPIKE

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. Senator Wayne Allard (R-CO), Chairman of the Senate Housing and Transportation Subcommittee, has secured $4 million for improvements to the Boulder Turnpike in the final version of the transportation authorization bill that emerged from a conference committee on Wednesday. The transportation bill is expected to be approved by the House and Senate by Friday and signed into law by President Bush early next week.

The bill provides $4 million for improvements to U.S. 36 between Denver and Boulder.

Senator Allard was a member of the House-Senate Conference Committee that ironed out differences between the U.S. House and Senate versions of the transportation legislation and secured a total of $110 million for specific transportation projects.

“More than three years of hard work and negotiations on the transportation bill have paid off, with $4 million specifically directed to the Boulder Turnpike,” said Senator Allard. “U.S. 36 has become one of the busiest highways in the metro area, and the transportation bill is going to help improve the infrastructure for commuters in the northwest metro area.”

“Colorado’s transportation needs continue to grow,” added Senator Allard. “As a member of the conference committee, I was pleased to be able to secure $110 million for a long list of critically-needed highway projects throughout Colorado.”
